Programme Overview

Excellent leadership of learning is crucial to the success of any college or provider of education, skills and training. This new development programme has been designed for leaders of curriculum, quality, teaching and learning at Curriculum Leader level and above. By working with expert sector leaders and training specialists, participants will have the space and time to consider how they can develop their leadership skills and capabilities to drive excellence and transform teaching and learning in their organisations. Through this fast-paced, challenging and highly engaging programme, participants will come away with a practical toolkit to create conditions in which excellent teaching and learning can flourish. This in- person, face-to-face development programme will provide you with the opportunity to network with peers from a range of sector organisations and build new networks for the future.

Who is This Programme for?

This programme has been designed for colleagues from colleges, training providers, adult learning providers, and other professionals in the further education and skills sector.

Participants will be expected to hold a role with responsibility for leading curriculum, quality, teaching, and learning. Typically, participants will hold roles with titles such as Curriculum Leader, Head of Department, Head of Quality, Director of Curriculum, Assistant Principal, or Vice Principal.

Programme Content

The Leading and Transforming Learning programme will commence with a one-hour introductory online workshop. During this workshop, participants will meet the programme team and be introduced to the key elements of the programme.

Participants will then take part in four in-person, face-to-face, whole-day development workshops which will focus on:

- The craft of highly effective teaching and learning
- Creating a high-impact learning culture
- Leveraging Artificial Intelligence to transform learning
- Sharpening the teaching and learning lens.

As part of the programme, participants will work in groups to complete a transformation project, which will be presented in the final workshop. There is an expectation that you will meet with your group outside of the programme workshops.

Price

The Leading and Transforming Learning programme, which comprises four face-to-face workshops has been developed to be affordable for organisations across the FE and Skills sector. At only £949 (VAT included) per participant, this high-impact programme represents excellent value for money.
